

The University of Washington's Climate Impacts Group recently released its "Preparing for Climate Change: A Guidebook for Local, Regional, and State Government". The "detailed, easy-to-understand" guidebook is designed to help leaders assess the potential impact of climate change to their areas, form a planning team, and develop a vision, goals, and a plan to address those impacts. A pdf version of the Guidebook is available at www.cses.washington.edu/cig/fpt/guidbook.shtml. A limited number of hard copy editions will be available in October 2007.